RÉCHAUFFÉ

EASTON SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

EASTON, PENNSYLVANIA

VOLUME 36

1939

For countless thousands of years, men have looked to the stars as mirrors of the past and presages of the future. They have tried to decipher the endless panorama of history presented in the heavens and through it to foretell the future. The stars have influenced the destinies not only of individuals, but of cities, kingdoms, and whole peoples as well. The phases and aspects of the heavenly bodies have been interpreted as expressing divine will; the stars themselves have been worshipped as deities. As we set out for ourselves in the world, many of us wish that we might foresee our futures, in order to make the best of our opportunities. Since we are unable to do this, let us do our best to live as true and honest American citizens. Only thus can we make our futures secure, and only thus fulfill the writing in the stars for us.

MISS SARAH ELIZABETH HILLYER

ADVISER OF THE

SENIOR CLASS

OF EASTON HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Sarah Elizabeth Hillyer has become invaluable to the pupils of Easton High during the years she has taught here. Loyal to the school's ideals and principles, unselfish in her cooperation with teachers and pupils, she has gained the esteem and the good will of all. In directing many of the school's theatrical productions, she has willingly shared her effort and talents in drama and music. As adviser to the graduating classes, she has guided us wisely and has given us an optimistic outlook. For her services and for herself we dedicate to Miss Hillyer this book.

MR. ELTON E. STONE
PRINCIPAL
EASTON HIGH SCHOOL

To Mr. Elton E. Stone we owe our guidance through Easton High School. Not only has he advised and befriended us as a class, but he has extended his consideration to us as individuals. Nor is his interest limited to our school life; few of us realize how closely our principal continues to follow our courses through life, aiding and encouraging us. By placing responsibilities upon us as pupils and conferring on us the power to make decisions, he has fitted us well for our future roles of American citizens. This service we can repay only by living up to his expectations for us.

In accordance with our theme, seniors are arranged by the sign under which they were born. The first group begins near the end of June and extends for three months. The other groups are of the same length and follow through the year until graduation time, the end of June, is again reached.

The key to the senior writeups is as follows:

- a—Appellation
- s—Sign of zodiac

Horoscope

The members of this group are cheerful and carefree. They have a smile ready for everyone and desire to make all about them happy. They can acclimate themselves to almost any type of position but will desire to do something creative. They have strong tendencies toward writing and acting. The only thing necessary for their success is constant supervision and encouragement. Unless they are so pushed, they will be only mediocre.

Art furnishes a medium for recreation for about a third of the group. The remainder find pleasure in sports, especially hiking and camping. They will be the organizers of clubs and recreation centers.

Horoscope

The outlook seems bright for the members of the groups of Libra, Scorpio and Sagittarius. The stars show that many of them will be graduated successfully from business and liberal arts colleges and will quickly find places in many fields, especially in law, banking and engineering. They are a fun-loving group who will find their greatest pleasure in dancing and music. There is a prevalence of artistic ability here in painting, design, and music. With application of this ability some excellent artists should be developed.

There are also signs of success in trades. This success will come only as the result of industriousness and self confidence. Members of this group will be leaders in civic activities.

Horoscope

In the group of those born under the signs of Capricornus, Aquarius and Pisces General students predominate with College Preparatory and Commercial students close behind. In addition to college secretarial work, nursing, clerking, printing and dressmaking seem to be these seniors' outlooks.

Those born under the sign of Capricornus, very aggressive and hard headed, demand respect and are very good providers. An observation discloses humorously that these persons are always in need of sleep.

If born under the sign of Aquarius, one is inclined to become an artist or dramatist rather than a manual or office worker. That most of the tramps and waits are born during this period does not reflect on the group for procrastination is the keypoint of their success.

In the group of Pisces are found mainly artists and professional people. These persons are generous and easygoing but demand appreciation.

Horoscope

The future of the members of the groups of Aries, Taurus, and Gemini holds many interesting possibilities. These persons will be remembered long after their fellows for their important contributions. Most of the group are planning to adapt themselves to work which keeps them in the eye of the public. Strenuous physical leadership, research work, and invention are the fields in which most will find their life work.

The members of these groups are studious rather than athletic, thoughtful rather than fun-loving. They would rather improve their mental outlook than use what seems to them precious time for amusement. The wide scope of knowledge gained by intense study and a natural cleverness give this group an advantage over the others when it comes to advancement.

The Junior Cabinet is composed of the homeroom chairmen, the officers of the Junior Class and representatives. Its duties are similar to those of the Senior Cabinet. This year it voted to give a Junior Play, arranged the Junior Prom and carried on numerous other activities. The Junior Play was the first ever presented by the Junior Class and set a high standard for those which may follow. The Junior Prom, with a May pole and other elaborate decorations, was well attended and proved to be a profitable enterprise. There is every reason to expect that the class of 1940 will continue to be as active and as successful in its senior year.

The Sophomore Class, the class of 1941, now consisting of 778 students is one of the largest in the history of Eastern High School. The officers of the class were elected early in the year and have capably and thoroughly carried out their numerous duties. Cabinet meetings were called by the president, Sherman Ames, or by Miss Willauer, class adviser, when the occasion arose. The cabinet is composed of the officers of the class and homeroom chairmen. Upon them and upon each individual member rests the task of making this class not to be remembered for its achievement rather than for its size.

The E. H. S. A. is the first and most important club to organize. Officers are elected early in the year and therefore can begin work at once. The duties of this organization are many. Letters are awarded to the members of the athletic teams, the annual football banquet is arranged, the editors and business managers of the Reynolds and of the Junior are selected, the budget for football, baseball and track is managed, pep rallies are arranged, club charters are ratified, and many other tasks are performed by this group. This year the Association brought about the playing of popular music by the band at football games. It has unquestionably fulfilled its aim—to maintain goodwill and satisfaction among the pupils of Easton High School.

The purpose of La Fraternidad Espanola is to give to its members a better understanding of the customs and the language of the Spanish speaking countries. Although this seems a very serious purpose, the club and its meetings are interesting and a way of having fun. New Spanish dances and songs are learned and the annual Mexican banquet is the outstanding feature of the program.

The school has La Fraternidad to thank for its skilled presentation of the authentic Mexican dance given in our operetta. Club members carried on correspondence and made strong friendships with students in Spanish countries. They were especially fortunate to have this year an exchange teacher, Miss Maria Babin of Puerto Rico, who has greatly enhanced the popularity of the club and developed more fully its purpose.

"Le Cercle Francais mercredi." French students know well that this is the announcement of the bi-monthly meeting of the French Club. The club meetings this year were presided over by Nannette Green, the president, and programs were planned by George Osmun and his committee.

During the year French plays were presented and petits discours about various French holidays and native life were given by members. Films of French peasant life in Brittany and various other topics were presented.

The puppet shows were greatly enjoyed by everyone, and most of the members tried their skill as puppeteers. The main social event of the year was the Christmas party. French songs were sung, French customs discussed, French games played, and refreshments—French or not—enjoyed.

Formed many years ago by students interested in the study of the German language and of old German customs, Der Deutsche Verein has become increasingly popular. Under the capable leadership of the president, Julius Schwimmer, every meeting presented an entertaining as well as educational picture of German life.

The annual Christmas party, which was held in the library, decorated appropriately for the occasion, was one of the most outstanding events of the club year. A party had been erected under the tree trimmed with gold and silver paper and tinsel. Old Christmas carols were sung and, of course, the delicious refreshments served in the German style, of course, received more than their share of appreciation.

Another meeting which was enjoyed particularly was the final one of the year, held in the form of a hike. The meetings of the club during the past school year term will long be remembered by those whose loyal and constant attendance have made Der Deutsche Verein a success.

As the purpose of the Latin Club is better to acquaint its members with the habits and customs of the ancient Romans, the only qualifications for membership are two years' study of Latin and a genuine interest in it. A collection of articles concerning ancient Rome is kept on file and is available at any time. At the meeting of the club, held twice monthly, talks on Roman life and people are given by the members and Roman games are played. This year the scene of the annual club trip, eagerly awaited by the members, was New York. Here the club visited the Planetarium, the Metropolitan Museum, and Radio City Music Hall. The members also enjoyed seeing the play "The American Way" and taking a bus tour of the city. The size of this excursion is an indication of its popularity, it can readily be seen that the Latin Club is one of the best liked organizations in the school.

The Band in their brilliant red and white uniforms played at all the football games. They marched down the field, rain or shine, making designs and letters and spelling out "Hello" to the opponents. They also furnished music for the basketball games.

During Music Week, the band took part in the program at the Easton High School. The band also played on Armistice Day, Memorial Day, Window Shopping Night, at the dedication of the plaque at Center Square, and at many other civic affairs.

The band is under the direction of Mr. Walter C. Renkwitz and practices every day in the girls' gym.

This year the Mixed Glee Clubs of Easton High School presented the colorful operetta "My Maryland" by Sigmund Romberg. The principal parts were taken by Janet Lehr, Charles Rasely, Greta Morris, Rhoda Harriman, Nora Ames, and Hart Lichtenwalner.

The plot concerns a young Southern belle who during the Civil War fell in love with a captain of the Northern army. Naturally, her father, an ardent supporter of the South, objected violently when the hated Northerner asked for his daughter's hand in marriage. From this point on, excitement and complications arise, leading to a thrilling climax.

Lovely costumes and graceful scenery gave color and charm to the production. Various dances—several brought directly from South America by Miss Melva Kuntz, a former member of our faculty, and a lovely ballet directed by Eleanor Britton—were thoroughly enjoyed.

Credit for excellent theatrical and musical direction goes to Miss Cline and Mr. Beam respectively, who helped to make the operetta one of the best ever produced here.

All the boys interested in physics have joined this club and have cooperated to make it one of the most active of the school. The meetings, held every two weeks, have covered a variety of interesting subjects. Several members spoke interestingly on such topics as model aviation, radio, model railroads, viscosity of liquids, and polarization. A trip was made to the Coburn Power Station, Holland, New Jersey, where modern methods of generating electricity were observed.

The club program included also several speakers: Professor Reaser of Lafayette College, who lectured on "Power and Fuel" and Mr. Paul Miller of Belfast, Pennsylvania, who demonstrated "Remote Control in Radio."

To technically-minded individuals and to those who merely "dabble" in the science, this is a favorite club. It is certainly one of the most novel as well as one of the most practical. Every meeting, held on the first and third Thursdays of each month, was entertainingly different. Many unusual experiments were conducted by the members who enjoyed doing something out of the ordinary.

The club also enjoyed visiting the City Water Works, where the complete process of water purification was demonstrated; the Alpha Portland Cement Company, the Gilbert Power Plant, and the Regal Manufacturing Company, where they saw the manufacture of paper from pulp and the cutting, packing, and shipping departments.

This is the first club of its kind to be formed in Easton High School. It is composed of students who are interested in the science of mathematics and who desire to learn more of it. Everyone is familiar with the Red and White. It is that small magazine, attractively bound, containing poems, essays, and short stories written by the students, which is issued each spring. The editorial staff has been extremely busy reading material written by the pupils and selecting only the best. This year's Red and White will not be forgotten—it is something to be kept and to be enjoyed.

The Arts and Craft Club has been unusually active this year. Leather craft, sketching, and decorations have been included in their work. In the beginning of the year, members of the club sold candy at the main entrance of the school. Every meeting was thoroughly enjoyed, especially the last—a picnic, craft and sketching party, held in the country.

The Nature Club under the leadership of Mr. Erb held its meetings every Tuesday afternoon. Each meeting was interesting because of its practical relation to everyday life.

Hikes were enjoyed and tours of inspection taken whenever the weather permitted. Field trips proved especially interesting and many specimens were collected. Some meetings were devoted to the dissection of animals, others to biological games. During the year the club visited the Easton Laboratories where chemical tests for bacteria were shown, and other places of similar nature. Probably the high spots of the program, however, were the club broadcasts over W-E-S-T.

Much of the students' information about club activities and sports is given to them by the Junto, the school paper, written and printed by Easton High School pupils. The Junto staff, composed of those seniors who are selected to take English V, work diligently every seventh period, gathering information and news and writing features so that the Junto may be published regularly every Thursday. This year the students enjoyed the Junto more than ever, especially the Who's Who and the What We Think columns and, Oh yes the Farcial Facts. Undoubtedly everyone will be sorry to lose Sammy and his well-known yellow tie.

It is no easy task, year after year, to select for the year book a theme which will be original and well-liked by every student. Early in the fall the Réchauffé Staff was confronted with this problem, and finally after much discussion and many arguments the subject of astrology was chosen. There were other problems which needed immediate solutions—the style of printing, design of binding, size of cuts, and many other small but important details which needed to be planned. The business staff launched a campaign in which every staff member participated. Representatives visited each homeroom for several weeks, soliciting subscriptions. The art editors supervised the pictures of the sophomore and junior classes as well as those of the numerous clubs. With the help of the extensive questionnaire issued to each senior, the staff members concentrated on the senior and the club write-ups, a difficult task.

With its varied contents and innovations, this year's Réchauffé presents a creditable record of events each student will long remember.

This is one of the oldest and one of the most popular organizations in the school. It is composed of students who are interested in library work and who are willing to devote their time during school hours and after school as well in assisting the librarian. Their duties consist of checking and mending books, filing cards, supervising the arrangement of the books on the shelves according to the Dewey Decimal system and keeping the library orderly and neat at all times. Although they find it necessary to work diligently during their assigned library periods, they find time to relax during their meetings which are held on alternate Thursdays. This year they visited the Phillipsburg High School Library and also entertained the Phillipsburg Club in our school library. They heard several guest speakers, among whom were Miss Magee and Miss Frankenfield.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas, delightful parties were held. The principal event of the year was the final meeting at which gifts were presented to Miss Magee, the adviser, and to each senior.

Chess Club

Adviser MISS FRANCES STORRY

The Chess Club is one of the most intellectual organizations of Easton High School. Composed of members who are learning to play chess or already have learned, the club holds its meetings every Thursday. Throughout the year competition among the members was keen and enthusiasm ran high. Matches were played against the Phillipsburg, Hackettstown, High Bridge and Wilson teams.

This year the club subscribed to a chess magazine which proved of great value to its individual members. The club members can always remember with pleasure and gratitude their meetings, for they have learned one profitable way in which to spend their leisure time.

Another new club and a completely different one at last! Composed of students who desire to give their fellow pupils a better opportunity of seeing really worthwhile pictures, it is certainly a welcome innovation.

The club has received the cooperation of the local theatres and a special price is now available to students. Nearly every Thursday, permits have been issued by all English teachers who voluntarily support Dr. Howe, the club adviser. The members have selected such pictures as they know the students will enjoy. Old pictures have been repeated on request, and opportunity has been given for students to see movies of educational value at a comparatively low price.

Its purpose is the same as that of the Junior-Senior Hi-Y Club, namely to create momentum and extend the good of the school and the community into the lives of the Christian living and to promote clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living.

The club cooperated with the Junior-Senior Hi-Y Club, helping it to carry out its "Go to Church" campaign. The members participated in various athletic contests and in Bible studies and discussions at their meetings. The Red Jackets, the new cheering section, was also sponsored by this group.

The Junior-Senior Girl Reserve Club is well-known in the school. It is a branch of the Y. W. C. A., and is directly controlled by this organization. Its regular meetings on Tuesday are always well attended for this club is probably the largest in the High School. This year the theme of the meetings was "Living Together". Taking part in many good works and contributing to different projects of the school. The useful projects of the club were many. Baskets were delivered to needy families at Thanksgiving, candy stockings were made for the Santa Claus Exchange, an Easter party was given for children, and the baby stee was celebrated for Christmas. Again this year the familiar after school dances were sponsored by the Girl Reserves and enjoyed by everyone. Girl Reserve dances were held, as were also a Mother-Daughter Banquet, Book Week, and a week of play at Waukegan.

This has been an extremely important year for the organization of new clubs. The Sophomore Girl Reserve Club has undoubtedly been one of the most successful of these beginners. It owes its immediate popularity to Mrs. Gaynor, its adviser, and to its active cabinet which was elected early in the school year. Its members have been trained to carry on the purposes of the Girl Reserves and will have an opportunity to continue its ideals in their junior and senior years as well. They have enjoyed many social functions and have held frequent dances and parties. Their meetings were exceptionally interesting, among the speakers were Miss Bab'n and Miss Shufflebotham.

This club has given much more to our school than it has taken from it and has been a most welcome addition. A brilliant future is predicted for the Sophomore Girl Reserves.

The Chinktewunk Council, known to most students as the Scout Club, meets twice a month with its adviser, Mr. Bedford, who is recognized as an authority on Indian customs and lore. The club members strive to promote advancement in scouting and offer individual suggestions for the advancement of outside troops and patrols. During the year badges obtained from the Iroquois Indians were presented to the twenty members of the club.

During the meetings the members gave demonstrations of good scouting and enjoyed various athletic games. Many excellent speakers, who stressed the problems confronting a good scout were procured for the Council. Each member received valuable information and training as well as a great deal of enjoyment in attending the meetings of the Council regularly.

Adviser	MISS JESSIE FRANKENFELD

The Bowling Club is an athletic club composed of those students who are interested in bowling. Its purpose is to teach each member how to bowl and to increase the ability of those who have already learned. A business meeting is held every two weeks in the school after which the girls walk to a nearby bowling alley. At the conclusion of each meeting the scores are noted and tabulated in a weekly record. Through this club the girls can gain knowledge of a sport which they can use long after they have graduated, and what is more important, they learn the elements of good sportsmanship necessary to them all their lives.

WILSON—The fighting Wilson Warriors came to Cottingham Stadium and violated tradition by scoring against Easton for the first time in the twelve-year-old series; however, Easton fans were not worried by virtue of the stellar playing of Bob Hager, who scored three touchdowns, and John Keck, who made one touchdown and proceeded to convert four points after touchdown, to give Easton a 28-12 victory.

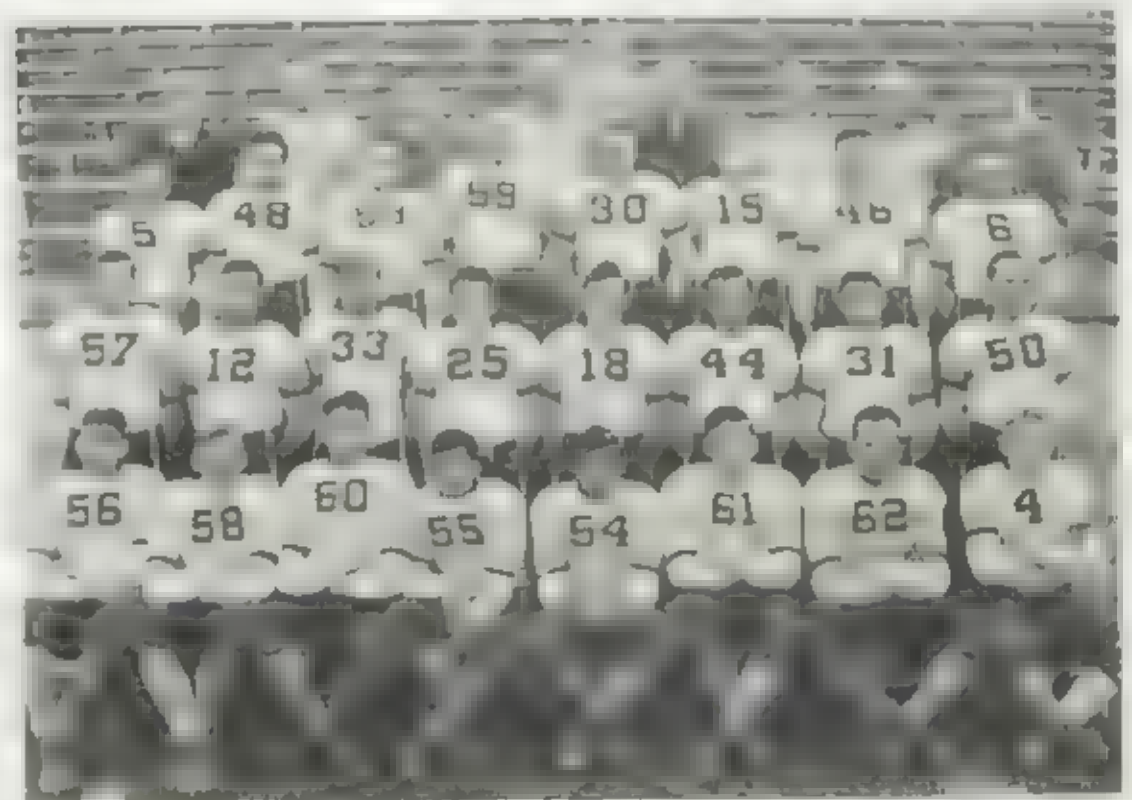

LOWER MERION — Easton next entertained Lower Merion and introduced Joe Frinzi, who proved to be an impolite host by scoring two touchdowns and passing to Keck for another thoroughly swamping the Lower Merion aggregation by a 19-0 score. Rocco Piparato, Raymond Topper, and Francis Paul were outstanding in the line

JOHN HARRIS—Easton then journeyed to Harrisburg for its first visiting game and, incidentally, its first defeat. After a brilliant showing in the first quarter, the Red and White attack collapsed, but the defense fought gallantly to hold John Harris to two touchdowns for a 13-0 defeat

POTTSVILLE — The Rovers returned home and met the powerful and highly favored Pottsville team to play its only tie game of the season. Hager scored Easton's one touchdown while the entire line coordinated to hold Pottsville to one touchdown for a final score of 6-6

berty High lads held the edge for the first three quarters, but in the fourth, Rute and Cassarino put on a sustained drive, climaxed by a pass from Rute to Beresky for Easton's only touchdown. The final score was 10-7, Bethlehem having previously made a touchdown and kicked a field goal.

LEBANON—The Red and White then proceeded to Lebanon and, as was expected, defeated the team of that city after a strong second half come-back with Hager scoring twice and Rute going over once. Easton gained two points when the line broke through to block a Lebanon punt which rolled over the goal line for a safety to make a final score of 20-12.

ALLENTOWN—Allentown then visited the Rovers and eked out an unearned victory, as Easton really outplayed them. Easton suffered a bad break when an Allentown player ran back the opening kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown. Easton, after Allentown had scored another touchdown and made the conversion, came back in the second half, with Hager and Rute carrying the ball, to score two touchdowns and make the final score 13-12 in favor of Allentown.

READING—The strongly favored Red Knights of Reading then invaded Easton, but were repelled when Hager and Rute ran wild to score three times; the line, led by Paul, Gadwell, and the Piparato brothers, held the Red Knights to one touchdown, giving Easton a 21-7 victory.

PHILLIPSBURG—Easton, in the final game of the season, met their traditional Turkey-day rivals on the neutral ground of Fisher Field and gained a well-earned victory. The Red Rover attack was featured by long runs on the part of Erbio, Rute, and Hager; the entire line played excellently both offensively and defensively. The final score was 13-7.

The Red Rovers played through a rather mediocre season after making a sensational beginning by winning their first seven games; from then on, however, they could manage to win only sufficient games to give them a total of ten victories and eight defeats. Though frequently outplaying their rivals, the Rovers were greatly hindered by inaccuracy in shooting.

The Rovers won the championship of the Triple-City League, composed of Easton, Phillipsburg, and Wilson.

E's were given to Carl Florindi, Martin Barnhardt, Donald Hunt, Tony Amato, Russell Meyers, George Pittenger, Richard Johnson, Joe Frinzi, Frank Gugliuzza, James Soroka, Cassidy Gadwell, Frank Erbio, Jay Gruver, George Kuzmack, and Benjamin Dungan.

The track team set forth upon another successful season with many veterans remaining from last year's squad. Among those returning were Bob Hager, Bill Ricker, Dick Haslet, John Kish, Bob MacCart, and Bob Walters in the dashes and hurdles; Francis Mucklin, Bob James, Alex Koji, Walter Boyd, Robert Benner, and William Clark in the distance runs; and Bob Hayes, Ed Wagner, the Piparato brothers, Ray Topper, James Kane, and Bill Hoff in the field events. This material, supplemented by many new candidates, enabled Coach Notestine to mould a capable, efficient and aggressive group of runners and turn in a presentable record at the close of the season.

The Red Rover nine began the season in anticipation of another league championship and perhaps, another District II championship. In order to accomplish this, seven veterans returned to offer their services. They were Frank Snyder, catcher; Bob Rute, first baseman; James Miller, second sacker; Jack Wallaesa, shortstop; Bill Goldsworth, pitcher; and John Ebner and John Keck, flycatchers. Patsy McEachone held down the hot corner position and "Wild" Bill McInerney took care of right field. The pitching staff was rounded out by Ed Antrim, Dashowski, and George Keck.

Red Jackets

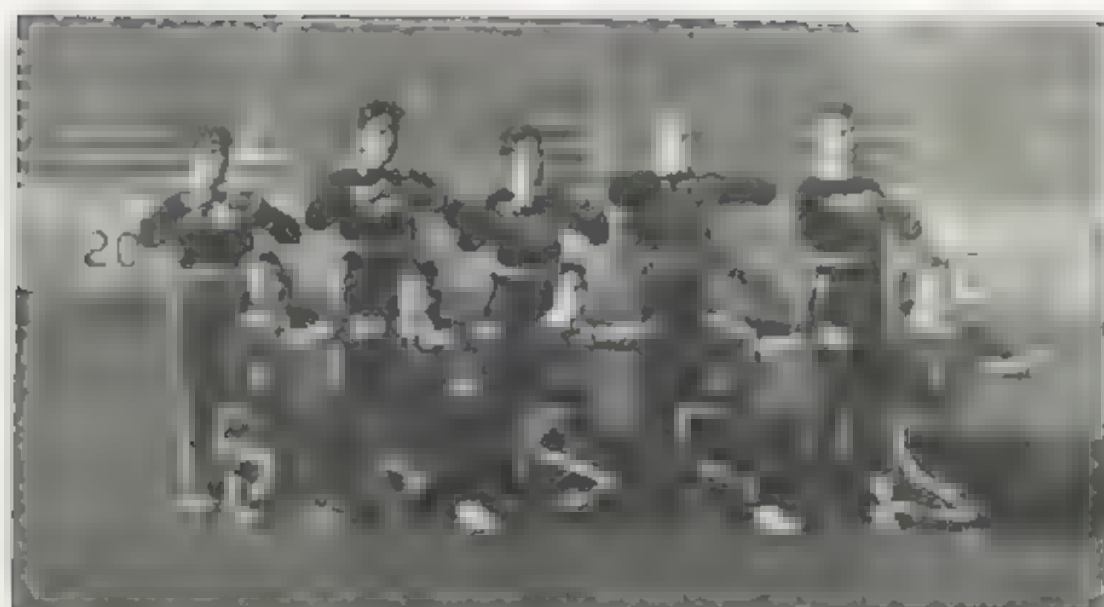

President	PAUL WILLIAMS
Vice President	JAMES GATNEY
Secretary	RAYMOND TOPPER
Adviser	MR. BRADLEY FLAGG

Paul Williams

The idea of having a cheering section composed of Easton High School students has worked out so well that an organization called the Red Jackets has been formed. The purpose of this club is to lead in the cheering at all the games and to set an example of good sportsmanship that the others will follow. The organization is limited to fifty boys and girls. These students wear red jackets at all the games and on school days when a game is to be played. Ever since its formation, the cheering at the football and the basketball games has been better organized and louder in volume.

A permanent organization of this type will make this school outstanding in school spirit and cooperation. Mr. Flagg merits a sincere vote of thanks, and both he and the pupils under his direction are to be thanked for their ambition and for their valuable service. They have enthusiastically followed their motto "We Serve" — an achievement in itself.

Cheerleaders

Head Cheerleader ROBERT METZ

Adviser MR. BRADLEY FLAGG

This group of boys and girls is undoubtedly one of the most important organizations in the school. Clad in bright red uniforms, they add color and inspiration to all the athletic contests. They, eleven in all, are chosen by Mr. Stone and by the various coaches. They must be prepared to lead their fellow students in the numerous school cheers at any time. Since preparation for these activities requires three practices a week at the height of the season, one can readily understand why careful selection of the leaders is absolutely necessary. Led by Robert Metz, head cheerleader, and Mr. Flagg, faculty supervisor, they do their best, regardless of weather conditions, to add spirit and good fellowship to the contests. In cooperation with the newly formed "Red Jackets," they have arranged newer and more original cheers — many of which are extremely complicated and intricate.

Credit is certainly due them, for upon their capable shoulders rests the responsibility and the success of the cheers and perhaps of the team as well.

Back row: Mary Ann Mohr, Anna Mosler, Lillian Hoffer, Robert Metz, Ted De Povel, Victor Goren, and Edward Sedding.

It is composed of all those girls who are interested in taking part in athletic contests and is better known as the G. A. C. Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball, and volley ball are all enjoyed by the members who faithfully attend the meetings held every Tuesday and Thursday in the girls' gym. As every girl has a certain number of points, and in this they are eagerly competing in their struggle to acquire their "E's". Numerous hikes and skating parties are held and each member contributes health and enjoyment to the many loyal members of the club.

This club has proved itself another welcome addition to Easton High School. Its purpose is to teach its members the elements of public speaking and to give them confidence and praise while so doing. At its meetings held every second and fourth Monday of the month talks were given by each member and short plays and character studies enacted. During the course of the year speeches of the members were recorded on a victrola and then played back to them in this way they were enabled to correct any faults made during their speeches. The club made use of the new amplifying system and studied every phase of voice culture.

Several of Easton's prominent citizens spoke to the members during their meetings stressing the importance of a good speaking voice. It is certain that each member has profited by his association with the club.

Although this was the first play ever to be given by the Junior class, its success was certainly not due to "beginner's luck." Both casts worked diligently with Miss Hilver to make their first venture outstanding.

The plot of the comedy, written by G. M. Cohen, concerns a wager between a young writer and the owner of Brinkley Manor, the terms of which stated that the author must write a story within twenty-four hours. This he does amidst much confusion, adventure, and a romance.

The casts were equally good, and their splendid performances were enjoyed. An annual Junior Play should certainly become a tradition in Easton High School.

Ushers' Club

President WILLIAM MC LAU

Adviser MR. MARTIN T. HAGER

"This way please,"—is a familiar request to all the students. Undoubtedly, the Ushers' Club comprises some of our hardest workers. The club is composed of forty boys who this year ushered at the football games, senior play, operetta, musical concerts, and many other social functions held in the auditorium.

The members of this club can always be identified easily by the red and white bands on their arms and by the large pins they must wear while on duty, as well as by their unfailing courtesy and politeness.

Adviser MR. MARTIN T. HAGERTY

The stage managers play an indispensable part in every production given by Easton High School. They see that the stage is in readiness, change scenery, and attend to the numerous small, last-minute details. Their work is both exacting and difficult; these boys devote a large amount of time to their work, and they deserve much praise.

The Junior Dramatic Club has been one of this year's most popular and successful clubs. It is composed of students in the Junior class who are interested in dramatics. Meetings were held twice a month under the supervision of Miss Hillyer. During these meetings which, by the way, were always well attended, plays were presented and the art of dramatization and the correct manner of properly acting in it were studied. Opportunities for the students to develop their histrionic talents were provided, and the development of poise and self confidence was stressed.

The club members displayed their acting ability in the first play ever to be given by the Junior class, a hilarious comedy, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." It was an excellent performance and which the Sophomores Miss Will Hillyer made its best to equal next year.

Early in the year try-outs were held for all the seniors who wished to join the Dramatic Club. Those who were finally admitted considered themselves fortunate. The club held its meetings on alternate Thursdays. Mr. Cooper emphasized the need for cooperation and assigned a specific project such as stage make-up, types of scenery, modeling of a complete stage set, costumes, and other things to each member. By this system the club was able to depend on certain people for necessary information.

During the meetings, plays were presented and pantomimes given. Several representatives of the theatre also spoke. Each meeting was both enjoyable and absorbing.

Senior Play

Director MR. ELWOOD COOPER

"Hay Fever", a highly successful comedy by Noel Coward, was chosen by the senior class as its annual production. It is the story of an eccentric family of four—the Blissess. The mother, Judith, is a former actress who believes that she is "positively stagnating" in their country home — the father, David is a writer—Sorel, the daughter, is a spoiled darling — and Simon, the son, a self-admiring artist. What happens when their four unacquainted guests are gathered together for a weekend house party at the Blissess' results in a riot of comedy.

As has been the custom in past years, two entirely different casts were chosen for each night. Because of the excellent coaching and the acting ability of the two casts were unusually good. Each cast interpreted the roles in a different manner and thus gave variety and distinction to the production.

The sale of tickets, making an all-time record, indicated its success and made the 1935 production one which will be remembered with delight and sincere appreciation.

Prophecy

Probably the greatest jolt I have ever received was that which I got recently when I went back to my old home town — Easton. Twenty years of absence, during which I had lived on a small island in the Pacific, where I was engaged in writing a book entitled "The Daily Life of an Oyster," had left me strangely ignorant of the doings back home. So when I decided to take a much needed vacation and arrived in San Francisco aboard a Chinese junk piloted by Monte Caiser, my first step was to seek an airplane office to ask about planes to Easton. The agent, to my surprise, informed me in broken English that there were four fields in Easton. As soon as I heard him speak, I recognized him as my old friend Jack Brubaker, the fellow who used to talk out of the side of his mouth. I remember how I used to chide him about this habit. I would have enjoyed a talk with him, but my plane was leaving and I was forced to say a hasty good bye. On the plane I was again reminded of my high school days as I recognized the hostess — Ann Over. She said this was her first trip east in many years because her run had been from Mexico City to Sitka, Alaska. And, she continued, guess whom I see everytime I am in Mexico City — Irene Kuper. She married the president of Mexico, and often entertains me at the palace. Ann also told me about two other classmates, Joe Chandler and Bob Metz, who were traveling through Mexico giving their remarkable exhibition of trained goldfish.

When we reached Chicago, a very stout man boarded the plane and took the seat next to me. He introduced himself as Joseph McModavis, foremost Chicago banker. It took me some time to realize that this was the same Joe who had slept behind me in history class at Easton High. He had many queer stories to tell, the funniest about our president, Jim Calfney. It seems that Jim had made a fortune giving dare devil performances throughout Chicago. His most famous was flag pole sitting on top of the 170 story Wrigley building.

Soon the plane steward, who turned out to be Sam Lipari, announced that we were about to land at the North Airport in Easton where we could take locals for the metropolitan area. This remark puzzled me, and I was still more puzzled when I stepped out of the plane and learned that this airport was at Nazareth, now a suburb of Easton. I turned to a man at a desk nearby to get information about reaching the business district. It was Jack Smith, but he said he couldn't tell me anything about the business district, because business meant nothing to him. The next person I asked seemed more intelligent. Seeing my bewilderment, he offered to fly me into the city himself. On the way in, he said he was Skip Paul, retired stove and coffee-pot man.

As I looked from the plane at the sight below, I was amazed at the size of the city and its evident prosperity. "Could this be the sleepy little town I had left behind me?" Skip laughed when I spoke of it. "Ha," he said, "you don't know what hustlers we have here nowadays. Do you remember the thousand dollars that Jack Bryant won in a newspaper contest during our senior year at high school? Well, he used that money to get into politics. He's our mayor now. In fact, the class of 1939 has produced several good mayors. Jim Hemstreet and Jay Gruver among them, and they have all done good jobs. And why not? Don't you realize that our graduation June, 1939, was under the most favorable signs of the planets?"

"Do you see those green patches of trees down there?" he continued. Those are playgrounds placed at every several blocks throughout the city so that the children won't have to play in the streets. That idea originated with Fillette Lehr, the president of the women's club. And she had a fine civic committee to back her up too. When the city council refused to provide the parks she asked for, she and the committee went out and began to tear down the condemned houses themselves. You should have seen Marge Boyle, Betty Forrester, Frances Halpin, and Gretchen Ichle wielding sledge hammers, and Ann Louise Miller leading groups of children to carry away the debris. When we saw what the women were doing we had to assist, so that now we have a wonderful system of small parks throughout the city."

ently well acquainted with the town affairs. I commented on the great change I saw in the town and they told me some of the causes for it.

"Alfalfa," they said, "was a leading factor." Arlington Smickle had seen the possibilities of it and had formed a company and bought all the land north of the city and erected great plants for dehydrating it so that now Easton was the alfalfa center of the world, and Smickle was known everywhere as Alfalfa Arly. Dick Waer, working in his chemical laboratory, had discovered a method for making alfalfa into a cool summer fabric much cheaper than Palm Beach cloth and much more durable. The huge factories I would see in the Bethlehem suburban district were those of Jack Wallaesa whose slogan was "We dress the world in summer."

I left my stout friends to put on more weight with their dessert and just outside I met Alice Wolfe packing five small children into a car. She said she was going out to the Fair. "It's very educational you know" and she invited me to go with her. On the way out I learned more news of Easton. We passed through a large Plaza twice as large as the old square and surrounded by handsome buildings.

"Vic Darnell did that," she said. "He was an architect out of a job and he came here and employed Bill Hoff, the detective, to get something on all our leading men which, as you imagine, wasn't very hard since they were all thirty-niners. Then he held them up for money and support in building a new center city. He made a huge fortune out of it and now he spends his time fishing for frogs in the park pools. He says that is what he wanted to do all his life."

We reached the site of the Fair, a larger and more imposing spectacle than I would have thought possible, and leaving Alice to take her little family to hear a lecture on "Why I Committed Suicide" by May Chandler, I strolled about. Someone thrust a paper into my hand. It was a program of events. At two o'clock, a fountain would be dedicated to the noble soul who had made this fair possible. John McInerney. I certainly must attend that. I followed the sound of music and made my way to the scene of the big event. Helen Collins, Angelica King, and Rosahe Mansback were entertaining a large crowd with a prevue of their famous follies.

of 1966. As I gazed, Richard Carey came forward and began to speak. I couldn't hear his words, but finally he unveiled the fountain. It was, of all things, the figure of a donkey.

I entered a building, a peculiar affair called "Fun for Fools." There I saw Irene Frankfort doing a snake dance, and Jack Christman and Edith Houston trying hard to fool the crowd with some magic tricks that were old in 1939. This performance was the last and cruelest jolt of all. I had seen as much as I could bear, so in much confusion I hastened to the airport and jumped into a plane. It turned out to be a plane heading west. After a short time, my thoughts recurred to a remark I had heard which, in my amazement, I had barely understood: "The class of '39 and the planets." I pulled out a vest-pocket treatise on astrology, which I always carried with me and began to work out a horoscope for the class of '39, which had gone out into the world June 21st, 1939. Sure enough, under the influence of Cancer, its members were executives, scientists, and philanthropists—full of energy and creative ability. They couldn't have failed to make a better Easton.

As the plane sped toward the setting sun, my thoughts returned to the time when the class had started out with only their diplomas, congratulations, and hope. "How fortunate I was to have been born in America!" How lucky I was to be a member of the grandest class ever to be graduated from Easton High School!
